Northwest Airlines Upgrades Jet Service Between Jackson And Memphis With DC-9 Aircraft

Northwest Airlines currently provides three daily non-stop jet flights between Jackson International Airport and Memphis International Airport with two 69-seat Avro Aerospace Regional Jets (RJ-85) and one 50-seat Canadair Regional Jet (CRJ).

Beginning September 1, 2004 the two RJ-85s will be replaced with 100-seat McDonnell Douglas DC-9s. Plus, on October 31, 2004 the CRJ will be replaced with a DC-9.
